

The e-Learning Resource is developed to support the Community Science Programme on Air Quality. It will help build a science-based understanding of air quality, create interest in accessing real-time information with user-friendly technology, and inspire us to help improve air quality and reduce our exposure to pollution. This learning resource is developed as part of a collaborative programme between Earthwatch Institute India and Ericsson India.